The news comes from a report from AppleInsider that shows a list of features in the new iOS 11.3 that have been tested internally. Some of the newly leaked features include Voice Control, Multi-Camera, Multitasking, and Wallet, among other changes. The feature list also has a list of changes that have been made to iOS 11.3, which show it is set to add new features to the iOS 11 software. The leaked feature list shows some of the new features that have been implemented in iOS 11.3, but it is not a complete list. Other features are still unknown at this time. It is unknown if Apple will release these features as separate update or as part of iOS 11.3. Other updates in iOS 11.3 include a smarter search bar, improved portrait mode, and a new network traffic control feature. The new software also improves the performance of cellular data on the iPhone. iOS 11.3 also shows improvements on the Messages app, like multi-message group chats, new emojis, and the ability to scroll conversations. The software also features new features for the Apple Pay
