In case the family is of 4-5 people, then the flat-rate van can be even cheaper compared to a shared vehicle. One major thing with private shuttles is that you need to book them in advance, and they may include extra charges for luggage or assistance in picking it up.

Usually, if the family is a nuclear one, then it's best to go with the shared shuttles as it is a budget-friendly option too. Also, if you don't mind sharing space or waiting periods, then it's a great pick. On the other hand, if you have a large family, with infants and a lot of luggage, then it's better to book a private travel.
